

NEW ZEALAND TOURING MAP

Many destinations in New Zealand are just hours from each other. An extensive network of air, train and road services mean most places can be reached by public transport. Buses and coaches link up with rail and ferry operators to take you the length of the country, and air travel is also available to most destinations.

There are several popular driving routes for visitors who want to explore the country for themselves. These themed highways around New Zealand take in the main highlights but also help uncover some of the lesser known gems. Most of these highways are signposted but detours are encouraged along the way and combining a few routes will ensure a varied experience.
